Department of Economics*Banking Sector Fundamentals

This course provides a comprehensive overview of the banking sector, its core functions, and the various institutions that play a crucial role in the financial system. This course is designed for individuals with little to no prior knowledge of the banking sector. It can benefit those seeking careers in banking, finance, or anyone interested in gaining a deeper understanding of how the financial system works. Learning objectives are: to gain a solid understanding of the role and importance of the banking sector in the economy, to explore the different types of banks and financial institutions, to learn about key banking functions like deposit taking, lending, and investment services, to understand core banking concepts like interest rates, financial instruments, and risk management and to gain insights into the regulatory framework governing the banking sector.

To make students career-ready, the Department of Economics introduced an Add-on Course on Banking Sector Fundamentals during even semester of 2022-23 Academic session. This 30 hours course started from 02.01.2023 to 20.01.2023. 498 students participated and successfully completed the course.
