conducted by
Department of Economics*Economic Data Analysis

This course equips you with the tools and techniques to analyze economic data, extract meaningful insights, and apply them to real-world economic problems. This course is designed for students with a basic understanding of economics and statistics. It is beneficial for aspiring economists, researchers, and anyone interested in using data to analyze economic trends and phenomena. Learning objectives are: to understand different sources and types of economic data (government data, surveys, and market data), to develop skills in data acquisition, cleaning, manipulation, and management using relevant software, to master descriptive statistics for summarizing and visualizing economic data (frequency tables, measures of central tendency and dispersion), to learn basic econometric techniques like linear regression to analyze relationships between economic variables and to communicate economic findings effectively using tables, graphs, and economic jargon.

To make students career-ready, the Department of Economics introduced an Add-on Course on Economic Data Analysis during even semester of 2022-23 Academic session. This 30 hours course started from 01.02.2023 to 24.02.2023. 495 students participated and successfully completed the course.

Syllabus*Module 1: Tabular and Graphical representation of Statistical Data (6 hours)

- Tabular representation of data for analysis
- Graphical representation of data-use of line diagram, bar chart, divided bar chart, pie chart, etc.
- Frequency distribution table: uses and implications
- Pictorial descriptions of frequency table: frequency polygon, histogram, ogive etc.

Module 2: Basic Descriptive Statistics and its role in Data Analysis (16 hours)

- Measures of Central Tendency—Concept of arithmetic mean, geometric mean and harmonic mean—their uses. The concept of median and mode—their uses in analyzing economic data. Comparison of mean, median and mode as measures of central tendency
- Measures of dispersion: range, mean deviation, standard deviation and quartile deviation. Properties of various measures and their implications. Comparison of various measures of dispersion. Significance of the concept of coefficient of variation. Use of range, standard deviation and coefficient of variation in measuring income inequality. Basic concept of Gini coefficient and Lorenz curve.
- Introductory ideas of correlation and regression analysis.
